MAKE THEM WEAR PROPER BATHING SUITS

Mothers Should See That Daughters Wear Appar-
el That Modesty
Would Prescribe.

(From the Christian Advocate.)

Three girls and a young man, all clerks in a large department store, stood at the package counter looking at a small photo of one of the girls.

"Oh, isn't it splendid?" asked one of the girls.

"How perfectly lovely!" said the other.

"A peach of a suit," remarked the young man.

"Ain't it," said the original of the picture. Gee! but I got the devil for wearing that suit. I paid eight dollars for it and wore it only three times."

The waiting customer having her curiosity aroused, glanced at the picture in question. The girl moved nearer so the woman could get a better view, saying: "Don't you think it is a perfect picture of her?"

"I surely do," replied the woman.

"And then the poise," continued the girl, "that's the best of all. Nothing stiff about that, is there?"

"No, indeed," said the woman, as she took the package and walked away.

That "eight-dollar suit," that "peach of a suit," that suit that the girl "got the devil for wearing," consisted of a diminutive pair of trunks, a tiny jersey, a bewitching cap, and equally bewitching bathing shoes, and as for the poise, take the woman's word for it that it certainly was not stiff.

It seemed to the woman that it would have been more appropriate had the girl said: "The devil got me to wear that suit."

Before the woman expressed an opinion of the girl or her mother, she determined to visit the shore and take a few notes. Was it possible that her bathing suit had gone out of style? She certainly thought so, for long before she reached the water she met girls trotting around by the ice cream counter and other places of amusement, clad in only a few more ravellings than the heathens wear.

Two years ago the girls would have been chased off the beach by a policeman, and an account of the affair with large headlines would have been in the morning paper, but this year the policeman just looked at the girls, shrugged his shoulders, and passed on with the remark, "Some show."

In the water girls were inviting and permitting unwarrantable liberties that would not be tolerated in a public dance hall. All the bars of modesty were let down at the shore.

Oh, mothers, mothers, mothers! Can you not see by allowing your girls to wear these daring bathing suits you are permitting them to play very close to the danger line, and should they step over it, it will be because you have failed, miserably failed, in the greatest of all work—the training of your daughters.

And it is because of your failure that it becomes necessary to open so many homes for delinquent girls. The number of girls who are planning to enter these homes this fall is appalling.

If you would save yourself many a headache, you will stop in your mad rush to keep up with the crowds and see how far from the danger line your girl is playing.

Of course, you KNOW that your girl is miles and miles away from the danger line; but somebody's girl is close—Oh, so close! and somebody's girl will continue to play close—and step over, until mothers realize that the Lord holds them responsible for the girls they have brought into the world.

WILL USE OLD BOOKS

Directors of Whitwell Special School District Adopt Sensible Plan.

Whitwell, Aug. 18.—The directors of the Whitwell Public School, which is in a special school district embracing over 700 pupils, decided to use the old books and not wait for the new school books. Accordingly the schools opened Monday. The people are well satisfied with the decision for three reasons—they did not want the schools delayed, they objected to the expense, and they liked the old books better, anyway. The amount of money saved the people was very great as the new books are much higher in price.

Getting Ready for the Chattanooga Inter-State Fair

HIKE FROM CHATTANOOGA

And See Lots of Scenic Beauty
Along Suck Creek's Majestic
Defiles.

Taking the view that a hike to Sequatchie, Mrs. Hunt's former home, would be just the thing for a summer outing, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hunt, 3600 Ave. F., East Lake, made the venture. They left East Lake Thursday morning at 10:30 by carline to Chattanooga, caught a Signal Mountain car, and arriving on Signal Mountain continued on to the hospitable home of Clarence Grayson, where they remained overnight. On Friday they continued their journey on foot, arriving here about 4:30 after fourteen miles of mountain and valley hike. They were enthusiastic over the scenery, especially when they followed a trail, supposedly a short cut, which trail deceptively vanished, and left them in the midst of primitive nature. However, Mrs. Hunt, who is used to mountain climbing and mountain navigation—having been born in the midst of them—evolved a route and soon they were once more on the right road, although only after a most arduous climb, but the scenery was so beautiful that they felt well repaid for having been lost in the wilderness.

FINED TWO

$2.50 AND COST

Two Held On Good Behavior
Till 21—One Released.

Investigation was made here Saturday in justice and juvenile courts of the cases of the five boys held charged with doing damage to the gasoline scarifier and roller owned by Marion County.

Trial took place before Squire W. S. Pryor and L. P. Brewer, Judge of Juvenile Court. Prosecution was conducted by L. R. Darr, county attorney. No evidence was secured as to who did the damage, but trespass was proven against four of the boys, Bruce Tate not being guilty. By consent, to avoid being held to court, the warrant was changed to trespass, and Mel Wells and Hugh Dixon, being over 16, were fined $2.50 and costs amounting to $2.65 each, the witnesses waiving their fee. Silas Robbins and James Falfur, being under 16, were made wards of the state under the juvenile law, until 21, and were paid costs amounting to $2.65.

Evidence, it is said, has been secured which will lead to still further investigation.

The damage to the machinery is considerable, and having been put in the bearings causing them to cut out. The steam roller was also damaged, and the officers are following up all clues. County supervisor of roads Sharpe says it is impossible to actually estimate the damage for the reason that the machines were needed at that time to complete a section of road, and now both of them are inoperative.

Miss Pearl Harris, of the Woolford-Johnson Sanatorium, Chattanooga, arrived Monday night to spend her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Harris. Miss Harris will soon be a graduate nurse of the institution, having been there almost two years, and has already been placed in a position of trust, having been in charge of the institution during the illness of the matron.
